DAVIS BARN FIRE BELIEVED TO BE OF INCENDIARY ORIGIN

Every Indication Points to Fact That Livery Stable Was Fired Saturday Night.

SUSPICION FALLS ON TWO MEN

Blaze Will Entail a Loss of Over $15,000 With Davis Bros. the Heaviest Losers.

PROBABLY WILL BE REBUILT

Fourteen Horses, One Cow and a Number of Vehicles Destroyed—Bus Line Wiped Out.

Every indication points to the fact that the Davis Brothers livery barn and the Caldwell bus barn, which burned to the ground Saturday night, was set on fire. Two men were seen in the vicinity of the barn by several people and were also seen leaving the barn in a buggy after the alarm had been turned in. Mrs. Lucinda Caldwell, who lives opposite the place where the blaze started, saw two men around the barn all evening. Policeman Walters saw two men drive up Morgan street from the barn just after the alarm had been turned in, whipping their horse at every step. It is said that a woman on Morgan street saw the two men answering the same description and recognized them.

It is very probable that Davis brothers who owned the building will rebuild soon. John Davis, one of the partners said this morning that, although no definite arrangements had been made, due to the fact that his brother R. S. Davis is ill, it was very probable that the barn would be rebuilt on the old site. The carcasses were hauled away and work was started cleaning up the debris.

The fire was the most disastrous one in Rushville in recent years, will entail a loss of more than fifteen thousand dollars. Davis brothers, who owned the building, were the heaviest losers with Ed Caldwell, the owner of the bus barn, a close second. There are other minor losses, suffered by people who had property in the barn. In nearly every instance the losses were partially covered by insurance. Fourteen horses and one cow were burned.

The names of the people owning the destroyed property, the amount of the loss, the amount of the insurance and the articles burned are as follows: Davis brothers loss will total about seven thousand dollars and was covered by three thousand dollars insurance, fifteen hundred on the building and fifteen hundred on rolling stock, which was only a partial loss. They valued their building at $2900, having purchased it only recently. The vehicles and grain and hay, which was burned, is valued at four thousand dollars. Their detailed loss is six rubber-tired cabs, six covered buggies, three carriages, one three-seated rig, three sample wagons, two spring wagons, a farm wagon, two tons of hay and thirty-five bushels of oats.

The Caldwell bus barn was completely wiped out at a loss of five thousand dollars. The loss is covered by twelve hundred dollars insurance. The property in the Caldwell barn burned is as follows; nine horses, three buses, two baggage wagons, one cab, one phaeton, three tons of hay and forty bushels of ocom. Mr. Caldwell took care of the traffic today with two cabs and expects to continue in the business. He went to Marion this morning where he will purchase the necessary equipment, a portion of which is expected to arrive in the morning. He made an effort to get a bus from Connerville yesterday but failed. The line will be in first class condition within the next few days.

Three horses and buggies, belonging to country boys, which had been left in the barn all night, were destroyed. Ereell Beaver, horse and buggy, valued at three hundred dollars and insured for $263, Will F. McKee, horse and buggy, valued at three hundred dollars and insured for $265 and Arthur George, horse and buggy, valued at three hundred dollars, and insured for one hundred were all totally destroyed.

Owen L. Carr, who had some vehicles stored in the barn was also a loser to the extent of four hundred dollars. They were one carriage and five buggies with no insurance. James Dugan, an employee at the Davis barn, lost a cow valued at one hundred dollars, with no insurance. C. A. Thorn, feather renovator, lost one horse, two wagons and two sets of harness valued at one hundred and fifty dollars with no insurance. George C. Wyatt, lost a hearse, valued at one hundred and fifty dollars with no insurance. M. V. Spivey lost a grocery wagon, valued at seventy-five dollars with no insurance. He sold a grocery wagon only Saturday morning or it probably would have burned. Morris & Bassler lost a delivery wagon, valued at sixty-five dollars with no insurance. Mrs. Mary Hawkins lost a buggy, valued at fifty dollars with twenty-five dollars insurance. "Hoe" Berry lost a horse valued at one hundred and fifty dollars with no insurance. A. R. Holden lost a call buggy valued at three hundred dollars with no insurance.

The theory that the fire was of incendiary origin grew all during the day. Since it is the only plausible explanation for the blaze, and members of the Caldwell family are of the opinion that the barn was fired. Mrs. Lucinda Caldwell, mother of Ed Caldwell, who lives just across the street from the entrance to the bus barn, was sitting on her front porch most of Saturday evening. She noticed two strange men about the barn several times in the evening and thought that they had their horse hitched in that vicinity. Later in the evening she saw them prowling around the barn and, fearing that house. After the blaze had been discovered she saw them drive away as fast as their horse would carry them.

Policeman Walters heard the cries of fire from where he was standing in Second street and ran up the alley by the post office in the direction of the blaze. When he had almost reached the corner of First and Morgan streets, he saw two men in a buggy driving a dun colored horse as fast as it could run. They were coming from the direction of the burning barn and were going up Morgan street. Policeman Walters thought nothing of the incident at the time. He described the men, one of them wearing a straw hat and the other light soft hat, but he did not recognize them. They were in a new high rubber-tired buggy. It is said that a woman in that vicinity saw the same two men and recognized them.

A strong wind from the northeast probably saved the business section of Rushville from destruction. The barn collapsed and burned like mad in a few minutes after the alarm was turned in, the sparks filling the heavens in that vicinity. If the breeze had carried the sparks over the business section of the city, it would have been next to impossible to save it from destruction. As it was not many of the residences in that portion of the city were in danger as the sparks were carried over the race and into the fields. A few sparks fell on the houses nearby, but all over the

TWO "DRUNKS" ARE GIVEN FINES

Will Irwin and James Floyd Stand Assessment of One Dollar and Costs.

WERE BEFORE MAYOR BLACK

Fines Are Stayed and They Are Released—Free From Usual "Drunks."

The police court took on its old Monday morning activity this morning when two "drunks" were arraigned on the charge of intoxication before Mayor Black. Will Irwin pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined one dollar and costs. James Floyd also pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness and was given a fine of one dollar and costs.

Floyd was arrested by Policeman John Walters Saturday night on the streets in a drunken condition. He said that he had purchased the whiskey in Indianapolis. His fine, which amounted in all to ten dollars, was stayed and he was released. It was his first appearance in the police court on that charge and he was given the minimum fine.

Irwin was arrested by Policeman Walters Sunday about noon in a bad state of intoxication. He is a tailor who has been here about two weeks and who gives his home as Pittsburg. As it was his first appearance in police court, he was also given the minimum fine which amounted in all to ten dollars. His fine was stayed and he was released. He said his whiskey was given to him.

The two arrests are the first for drunkenness in several weeks. For several weeks in succession the police court was the scene of much activity on Monday mornings, but for the past few weeks the city has been comparatively free from Saturday night and Sunday drunks.

W. O. HEADLEE PASSES BEYOND

Well Known and Much Respected Citizen Succumbs to White Plague After Long Battle.

HAS LED AN EXEMPLARY LIFE

Best Remembered by Untiring Work, Without Remuneration, he Did to Establish Chautauqua Here.

William Otto Headlee, former county superintendent, only recently editor of the American, and a much respected and well known citizen, died at his home in West Second street this morning at 6:20 o'clock, following several years of poor health. Tuberculosis was the cause of Mr. Headlee's death. He had been in very poor health for the past year, but only a few weeks ago he gave up and was confined to his bed.

Mr. Headlee will best be remembered for his connection with the Rush county chautauqua. To him may be attributed the fact that the people of this county and city can enjoy the features of an annual chautauqua. Through his untiring industry and work for which he received very little if any money, he succeeded in making the annual event a permanent fixture in the life of Rush county.

The chautauqua has been here now for several successive years and will continue to be here and Mr. Headlee can be alone accorded the honor of making it what it is today. The first year the assembly was attempted here, Mr. Headlee was made the local manager. He worked night and day along with his other work to see the meeting a success and he was rewarded for his efforts although not in a way that was very tangible. He spent his time on the affair and received absolutely no remuneration. Mr. Headlee managed the chautauqua one year alone and nearly every other year that he was here he was connected with the assembly.

Mr. Headlee was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Headlee and was born near Manilla February 7, 1878, and would have been thirty-three years old his next birthday. Left an orphan at the age of two years, he lived with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Headlee in this county until he was fourteen years old. He received his early education in the public schools of the county.

He strove to better things and after receiving a diploma from the common schools he entered the normal school at Danville, Ind. After that he attended school at Valparaiso university and Indiana university, where he finished his education. Being without funds he was compelled to work his way through school and make all of his expenses. He worked on a farm in the summer time and stayed out of school occasionally to teach school and make money to seek a higher education. He was graduated from the Manilla high school before entering normal.

Mr. Headlee was closely identified with the schools all during his life. He taught school near Manilla and for two years was principal of the Richland schools with good success. While yet a student in Indiana university he was elected county superintendent in June, 1903. He filled the office well and was re-elected in 1907. Two years ago he resigned the position on account of ill health.

After his resignation was accepted he went to Asheville, N. C., seeking health. He returned not much improved. After that he sold his property and moved, together with his family, to New Mexico. He returned from there seemingly in better condition physically, moving his family back with him. He was employed at various things and last fall became a candidate for the nomination for mayor of the city on the Republican ticket. He was defeated. He later became editor of the American and agent for the American express company.

He married Vivian Westerfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Westerfield of near Manilla on March 5, 1899, and four children, Norma, Emerson, Lowell and Davis, were born to them. The widow and children survive him.

Mr. Headlee was united with the Main Street Christian church in November, 1907, and has lived an exemplary Christian life, diligent in every phase of church work and when opportunity afforded. He was chosen a member of the board of deacons on January 1, 1910.

During his long illness, Mr. Headlee manifested wonderful endurance and courage, toiling to support his family, when other men with less force of character would have given up in discouragement.

The funeral services will be held at the Main Street Christian church on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, conducted by the Rev. R. W. Abberley. Burial will be made in East Hill cemetery.

AWARDS CONTRACT FOR NEW BUILDING

Frank Mull of This City Will Erect a Five Room Business Block in Manilla Soon.

WILL BE OF THE LATEST TYPE

F. A. Mull of this city has awarded the contract for the erection of a five-room business block in Manilla to Samuel Strode, the well-known contractor of that place. The new building will occupy the site of the Taylor store and residences, which were destroyed by fire several months ago. The structure will be built of brick and will have all the latest improvements and conveniences. Mr. Mull has the reputation of never doing things by halves and the new building will add much to the looks of the business section of that thriving little town.

All the rooms in the building have been rented and several new places of business will be installed as soon as the new structure is completed. It will be remembered that the bid of Mr. Strode for the erection of the new bank building at Gwynneville was just one dollar less than the bid of the successful bidders, Colvin & Anderson. The contract for the bank building was awarded Monday. Mr. Strode will begin work at once and it is planned to have the building ready for occupancy before the snow flies.

LOSES OUT IN OUSTER SUITS

Indiana Brewers Defeat the Attorney General.

LATTER NOT PROPER RELATOR

Judges Hold That Suit to Annul Brewers' Charters Is the Province of the Prosecuting Attorney of District in Which Violations Occur and Not of Attorney General—Latter Official, However, Will Carry Case Higher.

Indianapolis, June 6.—Attorney General Bingham again has met defeat in the brewery ouster cases. Judges John L. McMaster, James M. Leathers and Vinson Carter of the Marion superior court have sustained the brewers' demurrers to the attorney general's quo warranto proceedings. Following the decision, which held that the attorney general is not the proper relator in an action of this kind, Mr. Bingham announced that he will carry the case to the supreme court and, failing there, will lay the matter before the legislature.

The decisions of the three judges, although not the same in legal reasoning, were of the same purport as that of Judge Clarence E. Weir recently. It was held that the right to bring a suit to annul the corporate charter of a brewing company, because of violation of corporate rights, such as leasing and holding real estate for retail saloon purposes, becoming bondsmen for retailers and conducting disorderly houses, and otherwise violating the law, as alleged in the complaints of the attorney general, is not vested in that officer, but in the prosecuting attorney of the district in which law violations occur.

"The cases will be appealed to the supreme court and preparations for submission will be made as rapidly as possible," said Attorney General Bingham. "The court has held that the attorney general is not the proper relator, but that it is within the power of the prosecuting attorney to bring a suit of this kind. The attorney general has no power over the prosecutor, and no right to direct him to bring these actions. The essence of the suit is not a single violation of law, occurring in one county—for that the charter might not be annulled—but it is the wholesale doing of these unlawful acts. The prosecuting attorney is not in a position to proceed effectively, and the attorney general of the state is the only officer who is."

"We will make every effort to get the cases advanced and get a decision before the next session of the legislature closes. In the event the supreme court finds that the attorney general has not the right to proceed against the brewers, I will endeavor to persuade the legislature to confer this power on that officer. If the attorney general does not have this power, as the law stands today, he ought to be given it."

To Burn Ballots of Election Declared Illegal.

Warsaw, Ind., June 6.—William H. Maston of Washington township, charged with destroying a ballot box and the contents before the votes were counted at a road supervision election held last November, was found not guilty. The jury returned a verdict of acquittal without retiring, the action being taken in accordance with instructions from Judge Francis Bowser, who held that the election was an illegal one in view of the fact that no record of the boundaries of the road district in question had ever been made.

"MOTHER" STREIGHT DEAD

At the November election the returns showed Browning was defeated by two votes, but he immediately filed an ouster suit against his opponent which has never been tried.

TOO MUCH FOR THEM

Roman Opponents of Church Put to Rout by Rain.

Rome, June 6.—The anti-clerical demonstration planned for Sunday by the Radicals, Republicans and Socialists, was postponed. Only 200 or 300 persons assembled at the meeting place at the appointed time, owing to a pouring rain. Those who had assembled waited an hour, and as their number did not increase they decided to postpone the demonstration, after which they dispersed, drenched, and shouting "Down with the vatican," and cursing the pope.

His holiness was accused of praying for rain to prevent the demonstration. A force of troops was kept under arms, but of course their services were not needed.

Fog Causes Fatal Wreck on the Monon in Northern Indiana.

Chicago, June 6.—One man was killed and a score or more injured when a Monon passenger train ran into a freight near Shelby, Ind., about fifty miles out of Chicago, Sunday afternoon. Among the passengers injured were several racing men from Louisville, who were coming to Chicago to spend Sunday with their families and friends.

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

MAKING GOOD

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good"; and Dr. Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards. A good, honest square-deal medicine of known composition is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for. Don't buy

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments.

It makes weak women strong, sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago.

As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy.

Children Take Risk

As to the everlasting care which all drivers of automobiles, motorcycles and horses ought to take, especially in the more populous sections of the city, where children may be at play, there can be no difference of intelligent opinion, says the Connersville News. There is, nevertheless, another phase of the matter which parents ought not to overlook, and which they can do much to improve. This is carelessness on the part of the children themselves. Yesterday a man was driving in his buggy, on Eastern avenue, past a lot on which a crowd of little girls were playing. As he drew near three or four of the bery ran to the center of the street and stood still, facing the oncoming vehicle with smiles of amusement. As the horse came nearer and nearer they stepped aside a little, but only a little, and the wheels rolled by so close to them that the hubs brushed their dresses in passing.

Later the same day a little boy walked into the middle of a narrow street, which happened to be so blockaded at that point that there was hardly room for two vehicles to pass. In the narrowest place the little man posted himself, not for reasons. He saw an automobile coming. The driver looked at Young America, standing defiantly in the pass like Horatio at the bridge, and sounded his horn. The honking disturbed the youngster not at all. It was repeated thrice, while the driver slowed the car to its minimum speed, but the little body did not stir. In order to see the end of the little comedy the driver moved his machine forward at its slowest pace, and when the front of it was within a foot of the boy he scampered away, shaking with glee over the joke. Similar instances come to the notice of drivers every day.

No one wishes to deprive the children of all the liberty that is good for them, but such performances as these are likely to foster carelessness on the part of drivers. It is undoubtedly the duty of parents to give this matter their earnest attention, both for the sake of common justice to the drivers of vehicles, and of the safety of the little ones.

Dodder in Relation to the Farm Crops

Examination of many samples of clover and alfalfa seed received at the Purdue Experiment Station has revealed the presence in the seed on our market, of four distinct species of dodder. Since these four kinds distinctly differ from one another in one or two important respects, and at the same time resemble one another in certain other respects, attention is here called in general terms to the different kinds.

1. Clover Dodder. This infests clovers and alfalfas. It is found in Europe and other foreign countries producing clover, also in the States east of the Mississippi and in the northern Pacific states. The seed is in general, gray to brown, nearly round, or somewhat flattened; the surface is finely pitted. It is from 1-30 to 1-24 of an inch in diameter.

2. Large-seeded Alfalfa Dodder. This occurs commonly in western alfalfa growing states, and is being found in the western alfalfa seed used in Indiana. The larger seeds of this dodder are about the size of the smaller alfalfa seed, and are therefore hard to clean out thoroughly. On the other hand they are smaller than the larger seeded red clover, and should be quite easy to clean from it. The size and shape of the seed is variable, the larger seeds, however, are nearly circular, and are gray to brown in color sometimes having a slight pinkish cast. The surface is seen, under a lens, to be very rough.

3. Small-seeded Alfalfa Dodder.—This is very common and destructive in the western states, and has been found in samples examined in the seed laboratory here. This is to be expected as Indiana imports much western-grown alfalfa seed. It does little or no damage to other clovers. The seeds are very small, oval, and owing to compression in the pod, have two flattened faces the surface is roughened; color, usually yellowish, which may have a tinge of green or purple.

4. Field Dodder—This is apt to appear in either clover or alfalfa whether grown east or west of the Mississippi, and is extremely destructive. Field Dodder seeds are larger than those of Clover Dodder, or of Small-seeded Alfalfa Dodder, notched at the scar, rounded on one side, and variously flattened, angled, or grooved, on the other. They vary in size from 1-24 to 1-16 of an inch in diameter, and are variable in color, being yellowish, purplish, dusty or grayish brown with a decided pink or flesh cast.

Notice that the seeds of all the doddies mentioned here are more or less rough, while clover and alfalfa seed is smooth with a slight gloss. The scar on the dodder seed is much less evident than is that on the clover seeds. Dodder seeds are generally smaller than good red clover seed or alfalfa seed. All who use or handle the smaller farm seeds are urged to procure a good magnifying glass. Such a glass is indispensable in the examination of seed for dodder and other impurities. A tripod lens costing about 50 cents seems to be as convenient a form of lens as any on the market. As a further means of identifying dodder seed, soak the latter in water a few hours, then with needles pick a seed apart, and with the aid of the lens, find the embryo, or undeveloped plant within. In dodder the tiny plant within the seed, will be found to be slender, thread-like and coiled.

In order to aid farmers in determining whether alfalfa or clover seeds contain dodder, the Agricultural Extension Department, Purdue Experiment Station, Lafayette, Ind., will be glad to examine and report on samples sent them.

Woman to Woman

The woman, who for any reason, can not get on with women is preparing for herself a lonely old age. She may be beautiful, witty, a favorite with the men, yet there are times when she realizes that in one sense she is a failure. She asks herself whether one of the most tangible forms of success is not to get on with people. And the greater success—as she also begins to observe—is to get on with women. To get on with men is much less distinguished, for the odds are all in her favor. Men are not critical in their attitude toward her, and respond quickly to attention or kindness, seldom questioning the motives underlying either, as members of her own sex are prone to do, says Woman's Life. It seems impossible for a certain class of women to be fair to women; ergo, it is equally impossible for them to get on with other women.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidney are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerves. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by F. E. Wolcott.

MADE COUNTERFEIT IN PENITENTIARY

Strange Case Has Come to Light in Missouri.

Jackson City, Mo., June 6.—The federal government has induced Governor Hadley to announce that he will pardon Lee J. Jaynes of Jackson county, who is serving a five-year term in Missouri penitentiary for forgery, so that he may be prosecuted for counterfeiting.

While serving his sentence Jaynes has been passing his spare time in making counterfeit dollars and half dollars. In some mysterious way he obtained rabbit metal, a quantity of lead, some bismuth, block tin and other material used by counterfeiters. He constructed molds of pieces of plaster of paris. The dies were found in his bunk.

Just how much of the "queer" Jaynes has made or how widely it has been circulated is not known, but the prison authorities got hold of a large number of the spurious coins. Jaynes passed them off on other convicts on holidays, when the inmates are given the freedom of the yard. He also exchanged counterfeit for bills with convicts who were about to be released.

CHARGES OF FRAUD

Are to Be Brought Against John Dalzell in Primary Contest.

Philadelphia, June 6.—In the thirty-two congressional districts in Pennsylvania all the state Republicans except two were renominated after hot contests in half a dozen districts.

Incomplete* returns indicate that Congressman Alfred D. Garner of Schuylkill county, a Cannonite, and William H. Graham have been defeated. John Dalzell, the authority on tariff, encountered a hard fight, being opposed in the Thirteenth district by former Mayor Black of McKeesport. The incomplete returns show a close contest, but Congressman Dalzell's election is conceded. Mayor Black announces that criminal proceedings charging fraud will be instituted against Dalzell. In the Twenty-eighth district former Congressman Sibley defeated Nelson P. Wheeler by a small majority. All the present seven Democrats were renominated and their election is assured.

Anthropologists Interested.

London, June 6.—A British expedition exploring the great Snow mountains of Dutch New Guinea, reports the discovery of a tribe of pygmies, averaging 51 inches in height, dwelling at an elevation of about 2,000 feet. It is believed they belong to the Meguto race, which anthropologists generally believed did not exist there.

Still in Jail.

Dallas, Tex., June 6.—Judge Seay of the criminal court has refused bail on habeas corpus proceedings to Sergeant J. D. Manley, the Dallas national guardsman who bayoneted to death Assistant County Clerk Louis Reichenstein during the visit of President Taft to Dallas in October, 1909. Manley has been in jail ever since.

Roads Reducing Expenses.

Galveston, Tex., June 6.—Following the injunction of the federal court to prevent an advance in freight rates, orders have been issued by all the trunk lines operating in Texas to cut expenses to the minimum and to discontinue indefinitely all new construction and extensions and other improvements.

China's International Exhibition.

Shanghai, June 6.—China's first international exhibition opened at Nanking without a hitch. The rumors of probable riots there proved unfounded. There was much enthusiasm. The exhibition was crowded and many Chinese ladies were present. The first ticket sold for 10,000 taels.

THE FATE OF THE RAILROAD BILL

Depends Upon Minority's Attitude In House.

WILL THEY JOIN INSURGENTS?

This Is the Question Over Which the Regulars Are at Present Very Much Concerned, as the Administration Measure Cannot Be Sent to Conference For a Trimming Without Democratic Votes.

Washington, June 6.—All signs point to one of the liveliest fights of the session in the house tomorrow, when a motion will be made to send the administration railroad bill to conference. The house and senate leaders have determined that the bill passed by the latter body must be robbed of some of its insurgent-Democrat amendments before it is sent to the president for approval. Accordingly the word has been passed for all regulars to stand by on Tuesday and vote to send the bill to conference.

The plan to refer the bill to conference cannot be carried without the assistance of the Democrats. If the minority joins with the insurgents in the house the senate bill will be accepted. Representative Champ Clark, the minority leader, said that until he had opportunity to confer with the Democrats on the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, he would be unable to say just what the attitude of his followers will be toward the motion to send the bill to conference.

A number of Republican regulars who are anxious to get back home as soon as possible were talking about accepting the senate bill and opposing the motion to send it to conference. However, these regulars will forego their desire to get back to their districts and will stay by the leaders in their determination to have the bill referred to the committee.

The senate leaders are very much worked up over the possibility of the house accepting the senate bill. During the consideration of the measure in the senate a number of insurgent-Democratic amendments were accepted with the understanding that they would be dropped out in conference. The bare possibility that the senate bill may go through the house causes apprehension in the senate. There are a number of amendments in that measure that are regarded as obnoxious by senate leaders. Among them is the long and short haul clauses, upon which it was hoped to effect a compromise that would maintain present conditions pending an inquiry by the interstate commerce commission. Another provision regarded by the senate regulars as objectionable is that prohibiting the issuance of an interlocutory injunction in the matter of state railroad enactments by less than three federal judges instead of by one as at present. Still another senate amendment that it was hoped would be lost in conference is that placing the burden of proof as to the reasonableness of rates on the railroads instead of upon the shippers. Senate regulars do not like the Cummins amendment, which authorizes an inquiry by the interstate commerce commission as to the reasonableness of rates increased by the carriers since Jan. 1, 1910. This was another feature that was marked for slaughter in conference.

There is only one chance of the fight in the house over the proposal to accept the senate bill being called off. If the president should decide that the fight should be terminated through the acceptance by the house of the senate bill, the house leaders would undoubtedly hearken to such a suggestion.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

The sundry civil appropriations bill, carrying proposed appropriations aggregating $110,000,000, has been passed by the house.

Mrs. Taft has returned to the White House after a week's stay in Cincinnati, where she was called by the illness of her father.

Further steps have been taken toward breaking up the strike of the 12,000 mine workers of the Pennsylvania Coal company.

More than half of the houses in Hyden, Ky., were destroyed by a fire believed to be of incendiary origin. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

China and Japan have dispatched war vessels to the Gulf of Pechili, because of a disagreement between the nations over the control of fishing vessels.

Practically all coal mines in Illinois have been deserted by engineers and pumpmen and the operators are confronted with the most serious situation they have had to meet with in years.

T. W. Stapkey, an English mining engineer, was waylaid by a Mexican near Calera, Sonora, and shot twice through the lungs. The assailant was captured and placed in jail at Magdalena.

While attempting to save the contents of the cash register in his father's grocery store from a robber who entered the place last night, James Dyson, aged twenty, was shot and perhaps mortally wounded at Pawtucket, R. I.

WILLIAM E. COX

Indiana Congressman Drafts Minority's Substitute Bill.

Washington, June 6.—The Democratic members of the house of representatives will offer a substitute for the pending postal savings bank bill, which has been made a Republican caucus measure. The honor of drafting the substitute has been intrusted to Representative William E. Cox of Indiana, who is a member of the committee on postoffices and postroads.

HIS MANY ADMIRERS WILL MISS O. HENRY

Death Claims Popular Writer Of Short Stories.

New York, June 6.—Sidney Porter, who was one of the most popular short story writers in America, under the name of "O. Henry," died Sunday morning at the Polyclinic hospital, aged forty-three years.

He had suffered for several years from a complication of diseases, of which cirrhosis of the liver was the most dangerous factor. His physician, Dr. Charles Russell Hancock, realized when he sent Porter to the hospital on SYDNEY PORTER (O. HENRY).

Friday last, that there was practically no hope of his recovery. Mr. Hancock performed an operation upon the author Saturday, inserting a drainage tube, but the doctor had little hope that any permanent benefit would result. Mr. Porter, who was at Greensborough, N. C., where Mr. Porter was born, arrived in New York last evening.

For the past few years few contributors to the magazines have been more welcomed by publishers and public than "O. Henry." He was one of the masters of short-story writing in this country, possessing a gift of fine humor as well as an ability for dramatic narration. Although he could write a tale in irreproachable English, he was one of the few who could make slang really funny. He had, too, a knack of coining slang words and slang phrases that stuck in the mind and became a part of our lighter language. He was essentially a humorist.

It was while he was in New Orleans some ten years ago that he adopted the name of "O. Henry," a nom de plume which seemed, somehow, to fit his works perfectly. In later years there were comparatively few people who knew what his real name was.

They Get an Increase.

Chicago, June 6.—The federal arbitration board which has been taking testimony in the wage controversy between 27,000 engine men and forty-nine railroads west of Chicago, has handed down a decision in favor of the engine men. The arbitration board granted employees 60 per cent of their demand for 12½ per cent increase.

Now Ready For The Preacher.

New York, June 6.—Theodore Roosevelt, jr., accompanied by his fiancée, Miss Edith Butler Alexander, applied at the city hall for a license to wed on June 20.

Monday, June 6, 1910.

No where has been found a better statement of Republican principles and policies in this campaign than that contained in the platform adopted by the Huntington county convention. Upon two cardinal principles of the party, this platform says:

"We approve of all legislation in support of the protective principle in the nation, and of all legislation to promote sobriety and temperance in the State. And while such legislation may not meet the full expectation of all, we insist that it shall be accepted at its full worth as the best at the present time obtainable. Protection is here to stay, a cardinal principle of our party, and so is county local option, and we declare our adherence to both as the national and State policies at the present time and for the future. To retain and maintain both we impress upon the Republicans the absolute necessity of control of the next general assembly and the duty of earnest and vigorous and united support of our local candidates for senator and representatives. We also urge united and earnest support of the Republican nominee for congress in this district, to the end that the principles of the Republicans of the district may be properly expressed in the national house of representatives."

Easily Explained.

A man who has to earn his living from one hour's work each day would have to charge more per hour than the man who worked eight hours a day, says the Rochester Sentinel. Reckoning time and services as a commodity, the man who sells but one hour a day of his time must make a larger margin of profit on the sale than the man who sells eight hours a day.

Plain and obvious, of course.

And yet no more plain and obvious than the merchant who makes one sale while another merchant makes eight sales is compelled to make a larger per-sale profit than his competitor. The people who tell you that if a merchant advertises his customers have to pay for it, overlook entirely the controlling economic principle of volume of business.

If you cast your lot with the merchant who advertises you will have practical assurance of cost production. You will be one of eight hours to divide the burden of his profits instead of carrying it alone.

When you buy at a store where sales are not stimulated to a large volume each day by advertising, you pay, on your purchase, an obviously larger proportion of the store's necessary expenses.

Fighting the Fire.

The members of the Rushville fire department are receiving much praise for their work at the fire Saturday night and they deserve every bit of it. They met a situation which has long been feared and dreaded here and they performed much better than anybody had ever thought it possible.

The remark has often been made that if the transfer barn or the Davis barn caught fire it would be hard to save the surrounding buildings. The weather favored the city, of course, and if the wind had been from the west instead of the east it is probable that no fire department could have saved the front livery barn at least. Although the wind favored the fire fighters their work is still deserving of praise.

Those who were there know how hot the fire was and what a headway it had gained before it was discovered. People who were watching the fire from a distance said it would be impossible to save the livery barn in front. But it was possible and the fire department went to work in the right way and saved it.

As usual there were those who stood around the edges, told how it ought to be done and actually laughed at the work of the firemen. As is also usual in such cases the firemen were right and the spectators merely showed their ignorance by their slighting remarks. The firemen have no reason to pay any attention to the criticism they received and should be proud of the praise they are receiving.

Sensible Talk.

For good, sound, sensible statements conditions and the political situation as it really is the interview given out at Washington by former Representative John C. Chaney is hard to beat. The part referring to the attitude of Senator Beveridge and Representative Crumpacker toward the new tariff law is especially good.

The interview as given by the Indianapolis Star follows:

"The political situation? Mixed somewhat. It will clear up as we approach the campaign. We are hearing the complaints and criticisms now. Later on we will consider the merits of things and get down to business."

"Many dissatisfied? Oh, yes; always are. It was so in Lincoln's day. He was too slow for some, too fast for others, and to still others he did not know enough, and what he did know was unscientific. In Grant's time there was wide dissatisfaction. Preconvention talk magnified nonessentials into fundamental policies and the cry was 'Anything to beat Grant.' When McKinley was chosen dissatisfaction was so intense as to take out of the St. Louis convention a block of regularly chosen delegates and array them and their influence against the ticket. Men were caught by Coin's Financial School and flourished on 'money made by law.' Victory, however, came to Lincoln, Grant and McKinley."

"It is the same thing over again. The tariff is always in the political budget. Republicans believe in the industrial system we have and the Democrats do not. There are and will be Republicans who believe as the Democrats do and who will go into that party and there will come into the Republican party Democrats who believe as the Republicans believe. It will be about an even swap—except that the Republican party probably will have the advantage in the exchange, for the Republican position has the prestige of having proved its case, while the Democrats have proven failures."

"But the schedules? Schedules are details only. They depend upon residence. Congress acts upon the best evidence that can be found. The Tariff Board of the new law will hereafter find the necessary facts, or the proposed Tariff Commission will do it."

"Immediate revision? No, of course not. The 'commission' must be given opportunity to marshal the facts upon which to base further treatment of the schedules. Many of us in Indiana would modify the woolen and cotton schedules of the new law were we to act on present information, and had wished that the new law would reduce them, and yet we think the new law is a decided advance on previous tariff laws. In less than a year from its passage it surpasses in its benefits any former law. Human action is never perfect, and perfection is not expected or demanded. We fulfill pledges and promises when we go as far as our knowledge leads us."

"Senator Beveridge and Representative Crumpacker? There is very little difference in the positions of these two men. Both believed in further reducing certain schedules in the law, and both believe that the new law surpasses any previous tariff laws, and both will point out the superior merits of the new law in the forthcoming campaign. It is orthodox to stand by a proposition as a whole, even though every detail is not to one's liking."

"In Indiana, however, State politics will figure in the general result. The Republicans two years ago passed a very excellent county option temperance law and stand by it now. The Democrats declare they will repeal that law, and it is possible that the temperance sentiment in the State will not allow a repealing legislature to be chosen. The Prohibitionists and the brewery combine are, however, united for the repeal of the law and the Democratic party relies upon these allies to carry the legislature."

"The Republican party undoubtedly will make its campaign on what it has done and what it stands for, and I shall be at the service of my party wherever it is thought that I can do effective work. Taft's administration is worthy of the Republican party and will be sustained."

EDITORIALETTES.

Rubber coverings should be worn on all straw hats until summer comes.

Wonder now if that hot wave could have had a chill.

It's remarkable how willing some people are to criticize others who are in trying circumstances. At a fire or instance.

And why pray tell are all these Saturday night drunks.

"Back from Elba?" did you ask. Bah! Certainly not. Back from New York—Tom Garaghty's town.

Just one week from Wednesday is bargain and auction day.

It's pretty hard to tell which will be the big noise on the Fourth—the cannon cracker or the motor cycle.

Of course it's all right to go without a coat and wear your sleeves rolled up but it does look a bit premature.

Dropping first base on one's toe must be painful. Now second "base" wouldn't be so bad—it's lower.

Trip Around the World

The ladies of the Home Missionary Society of the Second M. E. church will give an entertainment entitled, "A Trip Around the World," Tuesday evening, at the colored masonic hall.

The hall will be tastefully decorated with flowers and flags of many nations and booths will be erected to represent different countries through which one may pass.

All will start from New York and by means of a transatlantic steamer sail to Queenstown, Ireland. Here they will rest a few days and partake of many hearty meals, consisting mainly of potatoes, raw, boiled, fried, stewed and perhaps creamed.

They will not tarry here long so they will again set sail and stop at Hamburg, Germany, where undoubtedly they will eat plenty of limburger cheese and cereals of all kinds.

Their next stop will be in Rome, Italy, a place of great renown in ancient history, where all may have plenty of good macaroni and cheese and spaghetti. From here they will go just across the Mediterranean sea to Alexandria, Egypt, the land of the black man. In this place they will be served to all kinds of tropical fruits such as are not found elsewhere.

For fear that the sun may be too warm for them they will continue their journey and stop over in Hong-Kong, China. This is no doubt the place they have all longed to see. They will be served with chop suey and some of the most delicious tea ever tasted.

They will stop a short time to visit the land of the little brown man, who has been attracting so much attention, so they stop over in Japan for a while. The party will put up in one of the fashionable hotels in Yokohama, where no doubt they will be set down to a table bountifully supplied with fish and rice cooked in every style.

After visiting this place they will sail across the Pacific ocean to San Francisco, thence by rail home again.

"Kiss Not" Buttons

The first girl in Atchinson to appear wearing one of the "Kiss Not" buttons was Daysey Mayme Appleton, and while there are those who will hint that such a button is unnecessary, no one is mean enough to doubt Daysey Mayme's good intentions, says the Atchinson Globe. The "Kiss Not" buttons are sent out by the World's Health Organization of Cincinnati and cost five cents each.

Daysey Mayme was given the glorious privilege of signing a pledge to the effect that she will never kiss an innocent babe, a helpless child, another woman, or a man. For in the kiss lurk millions of disease germs.

"If you have the welfare of your country at stake, if you prize your own health, if you care for the health of your relatives, if you have seen a loved one weakened and sick, if you want to do a little good before you die," said Daysey Mayme in a recent address before the Research Club.

"Join the W. H. O." Then, moreover, this button, costing only five cents, and a pledge with its is such a protection. Daysey Mayme is no longer afraid now that she wears a "Kiss Not" button that some man will grab her and kiss her in spite of her screams. "No gentleman would do such a thing when he sees my button," says Daysey Mayme with quiet dignity.

AMUSEMENTS

The Star Grand will present a Selig drama entitled "The Great Northwest." It is a story told mid the swerving pine and snow clad hills in the great Northwest, one of the most intense and dramatic stories we have had the pleasure to offer. We find the beautiful daughter of the Factor at the settlement trading post plainly showing her disregard for so much formality. Pierre, a young Canadian trapper thinks well of Julie and presses his suit and is finally accepted, but not until after Pierre in his persistent suit has incurred the enmity of Jon, the trapper. The party is leaving the trading post for the long hunt; Pierre is to accompany them. Ronald, a rich young Englishman, arrives shortly after at the post with a letter from the Governor-General, in which he is informed that the bearer has been appointed game warden of that territory and that the factor should post notice to the effect that laws protecting game and rights of reserves be respected. This is read with many misgivings by the populace. The new courier meets Julie—a friendship is soon formed; her father looks with favor upon Ronald, thinking him rich and encourages Julie to forget Pierre; they are married; Pierre returns. The true character of Ronald asserts itself in his cowardice and Julie regrets, but too late. Pierre bids them go and he seeks solace in the great woods of the North. Earl Robertson will sing a ballad entitled "All That I Ask of You is Love."

The Palace management will offer a big double program tonight in the regular film, "The Mule Driver and the Garrulous Mule." It is said to be an extra good subject, containing many interesting episodes. The extra on the bill will be Paul G. Baxter in his highly sensational lecture, "Behind the Bars at Joliet." Mr. Baxter was employed at the Illinois State prison for ten years and obtained a set of one hundred pictures of the scenes there. The pictures and explanatory lecture is said to be of a very educational nature. Press notices from where the lecture has been given are high in their praise of the innovation.

"The Servant and the Tutor" is the title of the film to be shown at the Vaudeville theater tonight. It is said to be a feature film of much merit. A new illustrated song will be on the program.

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

Next time you come to Minneapolis, ask for a pass and see for yourself how we make the flour that makes your bread.

COPYRIGHT-1910 WASHBURN-CROSBY CO. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

"Disgrace!" cried Annie contemptuously. "What is disgrace when a human life is at stake?"

"It seemed so useless," moaned Alicia—"a useless sacrifice in the face of Howard's confession. Of course—if I'd known—if I'd suspected what you tell me—I'd have come forward and told everything—no matter at what cost." Tearfully she added: "Surely you realize the position it puts me in?"

A new light shone in Annie's eyes. What was this woman's misery to her? Her duty was to the poor fellow who was counting the hours until she could set him free. His stepmother deserved no mercy. Utterly selfish, devoid of a spark of humanity, she would have left them both to perish in order to protect herself from shame and ridicule. Her face was set and determined as she said calmly: "It must be done now."

"Yes," murmured Alicia in a low tone that sounded like a sob, "it must be done now! Oh, if I'd only done it before—if I'd only told Mr. Jeffries the whole truth! You speak of Howard's sufferings. If he didn't do it, he has at least the consciousness of his own innocence, but I—the constant fear of being found out is worse than any hell the imagination can conjure up. I dreaded it—I dread it now—it means disgrace—social ostracism—my husband must know—the whole world will know."

Annie was not listening. Still bewildered, she gazed with the utmost astonishment at her companion. To think that this mysterious woman they had been seeking was Howard's stepmother.

"So you're the missing witness we have all been hunting for!" she said; "I can't believe it even now. How did it happen?"

"He and I were once engaged. I broke it off when I found him out. After I married Mr. Jeffries I met Underwood again. Foolishly, I allowed the old intimacy to be renewed. He took advantage and preyed on my friends. I forbade him my house. He wrote me a letter in which he threatened to kill himself. I was afraid he meant it—I wanted to prevent him. I went to his rooms that night. I didn't tell Mr. Jeffries. When the truth is known and I acknowledge that I visited this man—can you see what it means?—what a fuss there'll be. Everybody will put the worst construction on it—"

"Trust them for that!" said Annie grimly. She was sorry for the woman's distress, yet, being only human, she felt a certain sense of satisfaction in seeing her suffer a little of what she had been made to suffer.

"They'll say that I—God knows what they'll say!" went on Alicia distractedly. "My husband will be dragged through the mire of another public scandal—his social prestige will—oh, I dare not think of it—I know—my duty is to that unfortunate boy. I mustn't think of myself."

"Have you the letter that Mr. Underwood wrote you?" demanded her companion.

"Yes—I've never been able to destroy it. I don't know why I kept it, but thank God I have it!" Moaning, she went on:

The THIRD DEGREE

A Narrative of Metropolitan Life

By CHARLES KLEIN and ARTHUR HORNBLow

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

(Copyright, 1909, by G. W. Dillingham Company.)

She put her handkerchief to her face to conceal her agitation. Could it be possible that the judge was going to act, after all, in defiance of her husband's wishes? If that were true, what would become of her? Concealment would be no longer possible. Discovery of her clandestine visit to Underwood's apartment that fatal night must come. Howard might still be the murderer, Underwood might not have committed suicide, but her visit to his rooms at midnight would become known. Judge Brewster was not the man to be deterred by difficulties once he took up a case. He would see the importance of finding the mysterious woman who went secretly to Underwood's rooms that night of the tragedy.

"He consulted only his own feelings," went on Annie. "He believes in Howard, and he's going to defend him."

Alicia looked at her anxiously as if trying to read what might be in her mind. Indifferently she went on:

"The papers say there was a quarrel about you, that you and Mr. Underwood were too friendly. They implied that Howard was jealous. Is this true?"

"It's all talk," cried Annie indignantly—"nothing but scandal—lies!"

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity? Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity. For 30 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health and vigor.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me first as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped the ailing upon thousands by my private prescription of personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend. A postal will bring it to you at once. I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So write me now and save all delays. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Which Book Shall I Send You?
No. 1 On Dyspepsia No. 4 For Women
No. 2 On the Heart No. 5 For Men
No. 3 On the Kidneys No. 6 On Rheumatism

There's not a word of truth in it. Howard never had a jealous thought of me—and as for me—why—I've always worshiped the ground he walked on. Didn't he sacrifice everything for my sake? Didn't he quarrel with his father for me? Didn't he marry me? Didn't he try to educate and make a lady of me? My God!—do you suppose I'd give a man like that cause for jealousy? What do the newspapers care? They print cruel statements that cut into a woman's heart, without giving it a thought, without knowing or caring whether it's true or not, as long as it interests and amuses their readers. You—you don't really believe I'm the cause of his misfortunes, do you?"

Alicia shook her head as she answered kindly: "No, I don't. Believe me, I don't. You were right when you said that at such a time as this one woman should stand by another. I'm going to stand by you. Let me be your friend, let me help you." Extending her hand, she said: "Will you?"

Annie grasped the proffered hand. It was the first that had been held out to her in her present trouble. A lump rose in her throat. Much affected, she said:

"It's the first kind word that—" She stopped and looked closely for a moment at Alicia. Then she went on:

"It's the queerest thing, Mrs. Jeffries, but it keeps coming into my mind. Howard told me that while he was at Underwood's that dreadful night he thought he heard your voice. It must have been a dream, of course, yet he thought he was sure of it. Your voice—that's queer, isn't it? Why—what's the matter?"

Alicia had grown deathly pale and staggered against a chair. Annie ran to her aid, thinking she was ill.

"It's nothing—nothing!" stammered Alicia, recovering herself.

Fearing she had said something to hurt her feelings, Annie said sympathetically:

"I haven't said anything—anything out of the way—have I? If I have I'm sorry—awfully sorry. I'm afraid—I've been very rude and you've been so kind!"

"No, no!" interrupted Alicia quickly. "You've said nothing—done nothing—you've had a great deal to bear—a great deal to bear. I understand that perfectly." Taking her companion's hand in hers, she went on: "Tell me, what do they say about the woman who went to see Robert Underwood the night of the tragedy?"

"The police can't find her—we don't know who she is." Confidently she went on: "But Judge Brewster will find her. We have a dozen detectives searching for her. Capt. Clinton accused me of being the woman—you know he doesn't like me."

The banker's wife was far too busy thinking of the number of detectives

"I Believed Howard Guilty. Why Shouldn't I?"

employed to find the missing witness to pay attention to the concluding sentence. Anxiously she demanded: "Supposing the woman is found, what can she prove? What difference will it make?"

"All the difference in the world," replied Annie. "She is a most important witness." Firmly she went on: "She must be found. If she didn't shoot Robert Underwood, she knows who did."

"But how can she know?" argued

Alicia. "Howard confessed that he did it himself. If he had not confessed it would be different."

"He did not confess," replied the other calmly. "Mrs. Jeffries—he never confessed. If he did, he didn't know what he was saying."

Alicia was rapidly losing her self-possession.

"Did he tell you that?" she gasped. Annie nodded.

"Yes. Dr. Bernstein says the police forced it out of his tired brain. I made Howard go over every second of his life that night from the time he left me to the moment he was arrested. There wasn't a harsh word between them." She stopped short and looked with alarm at Alicia, who had turned ashen white. "Why, what's the matter? You're pale as death—you—"

Alicia could contain herself no longer. Her nerves were on the point of giving way. She felt that if she could not confide her secret to some one she must go mad. Pacing the floor, she cried:

"What am I to do? What am I to do? I believed Howard guilty. Why shouldn't I? I had no reason to doubt his own confession! Every one believed it—his own father included. Why should I doubt it. But I see it all now! Underwood must have shot himself as he said he would!"

Annie started. What did Mrs. Jeffries mean? Did she realize the tremendous significance of the words she was uttering?

"As he said he would?" she repeated slowly.

"Yes," said Alicia weakly. Annie bounded forward and grasped her companion's arm. Her face flushed, almost unable to speak from suppressed emotion, she cried:

"Ah! I begin to understand. You knew Robert Underwood? Howard knows your voice—he heard you—talking to him—Oh, Mrs. Jeffries! Are you the woman who visited his apartment that night?"

The banker's wife bowed her head and collapsed on a chair.

"Yes," she murmured in a low tone. Annie looked at her in amazement. "Why didn't you come forward at once?" she cried. "Think of the pain which you might have spared us!"

Alicia covered her face with her handkerchief. She was crying now. "The disgrace—the disgrace!" she moaned.

"Disgrace!" echoed Annie, stupefied. Indignantly, she went on: "Disgrace—to you? But what of me and Howard?"

"Can't you realize what it means to be associated with such a crime?" she wailed.

RAILROADS AND THE PRESIDENT

The White House the Scene of Important Conference.

TALKING OVER RATE QUESTION

Representatives of Great Railways Have Gathered at Executive Office This Afternoon to Present Their Side of the Case to the President and Attorney General, Protesting Against Government's Injunction.

Washington, June 6.—President Taft got back to the White House last night from his four-day trip in the middle west and was immediately informed by his secretary of the arrangements, which have been made for his conference with the railroad presidents. The meeting with the president was arranged at the request of President E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fe system, who merely represented that the railroads involved in the government's dissolution and injunction suit against the Western Trunk Line committee desired to state their side of the case to the president.

President Taft had an interview with Attorney General Wickersham this morning and went over with him the developments in the railroad situation that have occurred since he started on his western trip. Mr. Taft left Washington just after the government had obtained its hurry-up injunction against the Western Trunk Line committee. The facts in the case had been laid before the president, however, by Mr. Wickersham and the president had concurred in the attorney general's decision to begin proceedings under the Sherman anti-trust law.

While Mr. Taft has been in the west increased rates have been filed also by the Chicago and Ohio river committee, representing twenty-four railroads in the central west, and by all of the eastern trunk lines. Mr. Wickersham explained these developments to the president and gave him the results also of an investigation which his office has been making of the circumstances surrounding the filing of the rates by the Western Trunk Line committee. The railroad presidents are having their innings at the White House this afternoon. Attorney General Wickersham is present also at this conference. Mr. Taft's friends say that the president will call upon the railroad men to answer the evidence which shippers of the west laid before the department of justice. Mr. Wickersham has said that this evidence tended to show that the railroad presidents formally met and voted upon increases in rates and instructed the Western Trunk Line committee's agent to file them with the interstate commerce commission. Mr. Taft's friends say that if the president is convinced that the facts are as alleged it is extremely doubtful if the railroad men will get him to recede from the position that the administration has taken. The railroad men, on the other hand, will direct President Taft's attention to the attitude which the administration has assumed right along in regard to the rate-making through trunk line committees and associations. They will, it is said, point out that it is absolutely necessary for a certain amount of co-operation between railroads in the matter of establishing freight rates and both the Taft and the Roosevelt administrations have publicly acknowledged this fact. The railroad men undoubtedly will call the president's attention to his own utterances on this subject and to his recent recommendations that traffic agreements be legalized.

A FINE OUTLOOK

Former Chairman Sims's Hopeful View of the Political Situation.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, June 4.—Fred A. Sims, former acting state chairman of Republicans, present secretary of state, and one of the most sagacious and loyal of the Republican workers in the Ninth district, is sanguine as to the outcome of the campaign of 1910 in Indiana. "The Republicans will win this year," says Mr. Sims. "So far as the Ninth district is concerned, affairs political are in much better shape than I really expected to see them in by this stage of the campaign. The result of the Ninth district congressional convention was in every way satisfactory to Republicans. We got a candidate for congress on whom we can unite most readily, heartily and cheerfully. More than that, we are united on him, and we will elect him. Nothing could be more certain than Republican success in the Ninth. That district has had its last term of Democratic congressional service for some time to come. We are in good shape to elect Republican members of the legislature, also. We have a state candidate who is a big help to the whole ticket. We are in fine shape, and we are correspondingly energetic and happy, for we see victory ahead.

"We believe that the state is going Republican all up and down the line. There is good reason for our faith. Not only are there positive reasons to be found in the things Republicans have done, but there are other positive reasons in the mistakes the Democrats have made and are making.

"While we do not wish to become over-confident, as some of the poorly informed Democrats are inclined to do thus early in the fight, at the same time we are more than merely confident, and we can tell why we are so. Take Marion county, for instance. I think most of us will say that the side that wins needs Marion county. Well, the Republicans, as it turns out, are in much better shape in Marion county than the Democrats. The county ticket is a strong one. The legislative ticket is especially good, and compares most favorably with the timber the Democrats put in the field. The significant phase of the situation in Marion county is the fact that the ticket is to have a united Republican party behind it, pushing with might and main. This means sure victory, and it means the election of a Republican legislature and the return of Senator Beveridge, a matter in which all Republicans are much interested.

"We all remember what Republicans did through organization and union in the Indianapolis city election, at a time when Democrats were entirely convinced that Democrats were due to win. It strikes me that the same union and the same organization are in the fight for the success of the Marion county ticket, and that the same hustling and political cleanliness and sound judgment will mean success at the polls once more. Of course it is highly important that Marion county shall go Republican. Therefore it is encouraging to Republicans over the state to see progress and unification in the big pivotal county of the state.

"It appears to me, so far as I have been able to observe and to judge, that matters have shaped themselves by districts in a way to give all Republicans the utmost encouragement. Take the Thirteenth district, for example, with John Moorman untiedly chosen for congress. He is unbeatable, so far as I can judge it. There is Congressman Crumpacker in the Tenth with his big lead and his popularity and service to his advantage. There is no Democratic hope of whipping him. Congressman Barnard, in the Sixth, has many advantages on the Republican party side, and the added advantage of discord and a weak candidate on the Democratic side. Republicans in the Sixth are mutually interested in electing every man on the Republican ticket, and the legislative and congressional tickets, as in other districts, are bound in the same bundle.

"Up in the Eleventh district they tell us that they have solved their political problems by uniting on John L. Thompson for congress, and that they will pull across the candidates for all places on the Republican ticket. In the Second Senator Bland is ready to do his part to enlarge the Republican triumph, and his united district is full of enthusiasm and Republican resolve. We are in a fair way to win the First and Fifth, also, and they tell me that with the proper enthusiasm and harmony management, the Eighth district will wheel into the Republican line once more. The importance of victory in the Eighth is emphasized when we think of the legislative votes furnished by that set of counties. The Eighth and the Seventh, it seems to the casual observer, may be the key districts to the state in 1910. The Twelfth is preparing to unite on a strong man who will be elected to congress.

"I am like all other Republicans. I am deeply interested in seeing the party succeed this year. I never have felt a keener interest, even when I was secretary or acting chairman of the state committee. I could not be more concerned if I were on the ticket. The campaign is important. Following it comes the reapportionments by the 1911 legislature. It is necessary, in the name of fairness and Republican party future, that the legislature be not turned over to a Democratic majority. Republicans know what a Democratic majority does when it sets about re-districting the state."

ILLINOIS MINE STRIKE GROWS

Engineers and Pumpers Have Been Called Out.

ORDER INVOLVES MILLIONS

As Many of the Mines Affected by This Order Are Known as "Wet" Mines the Loss Following the Stopping of the Pumps Will Be Incalculable—President Taft May Be Called on to Intervene in the Dispute.

Chicago, June 5.—War which threatens the life of the coal industry in Illinois has been declared between the operators and miners. Refusing the terms accepted by the miners in other states, leaders of the Illinois strike have ordered out engineers and pumpmen, who had been left at work to guard against destruction of property during the suspension. The order is effective twelve hours after the operators receive the ultimatum.

Millions of dollars are involved in this latest strike order, as many of the properties are known as "wet" mines, and they will be irretrievably damaged unless the pumps are kept running. The "dry" mines also will be greatly damaged when the supply of fresh air is shut off by closing down the fans.

In the face of the warlike move of the miners, the operators decided to stand firm, and their position was endorsed at a special meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, held in Chicago.

The suspension is costing the manufacturers of Illinois at the rate of $20,000,000 a year extra fuel, yet they decided unanimously to stand by the operators to the last ditch in the struggle. Federal intervention may be asked by the manufacturers, and it was intimated that President Taft may be urged to do as President Roosevelt did in the anthracite coal strike in 1902, when he forced the operators and miners to submit to arbitration.

The Butson Coal company of Danville, employing 2,000 men, has signed the scale. This is the mine owned by the United States Steel company. The scale was also signed by the Litchfield Coal company.

ADDRESSES CLASS

Tomorrow he will visit both Monroe and Jackson, Mich. In the morning, at Monroe, he will unveil a statue of General Custer and make a speech. At Jackson he will address the meeting commemorating the anniversary of the birth of the Republican party. He will leave Jackson for Washington via Buffalo Saturday night.

ASKS DAMAGES IN SUM OF $10,000

Van Hood of Carthage Files Suit Against Messrs Zike in the Shelby Circuit Court.

ALLEGES BREAKING CONTRACT

Litigation is the Outgrowth of a
Deal For the Plant of Carthage
Telephone Company.

Van Hood of Carthage filed suit in the Shelby circuit court Saturday against Robert C. Zike of Michigan, and Hannibal Zike of Morristown, in which he asks damages in the sum of $10,000, says the Shelbyville Democrat. The litigation is the outgrowth of a deal made by Hood, who is the owner of the Carthage telephone plant, and the plaintiffs, who were doing business under the name of Zike Bros. By the terms of the deal Hood was to transfer to the defendants all the stock, contracts, franchise, supplies and tools belonging to the telephone company.

All of the details of the deal were consummated several days ago and the transfer of the property was to be made on Wednesday, June 1. The parties attached their signatures to a contract on May 13, at which time Hood received $200 of the purchase price, which was $10,000. According to the contract, the defendants were to pay $4,800 of the purchase price on June 1 and at the same time give their note for the remaining $5,000, the note being payable September 1 without interest.

According to the allegations in the complaint, Mr. Hood says that he has complied with all of his requirements in the deal, but that the plaintiffs have not and refuse to complete their end of the contract. In the complaint Mr. Hood says that he has paid off all of the indebtedness of the plant and that he now stands ready to fulfill his part of the contract and turn the property over to the plaintiffs. The telephone plant is located in the town of Carthage. Several subscribers of the company live in Hanover township, where all of the interested parties are well known. The complaint was filed by Megee & Kiplinger of Rushville.

According to a resident of Morristown, the defendants failed to use the proper amount of sound business judgment before they entered into the contract with Mr. Hood. Without making any kind of an investigation whatever, it is said that the Messrs. Zike signed a contract for the purchase of a plant and then after they discovered that conditions were different from what they appeared to be, they decided that they did not want the property. By their action they were willing to lose the $200, which they paid at the time of the execution of the contract, rather than take the hazard of losing the amount of their investment.

The Carthage Telephone company, which is commonly known as the Bell Telephone company, has a rival in the Mutual Telephone company. When the prospective purchasers learned that the Mutual company was securing subscribers from the other company they decided that they did not want to make the investment as the subscribers of Hood's company could not be held to their original contracts.

WORRIED OVER GIRL'S ABSENCE

Miss Goldie Lowe of Manilla Was Missing Several Days and Her Parents Were Alarmed.

WAS VISITING IN INDIANAPOLIS

Father Went to City After Her—Reported That Young Woman
Refused to Come.

Samuel Lowe, a well known Rush county farmer residing about two miles southeast of Manilla, was in this city Thursday evening returning from Indianapolis, where he had gone to discover the whereabouts of his eighteen-year-old daughter, Miss Goldie. The girl had been missing for several days and her relatives were anxious to obtain information regarding her, says the Shelbyville Democrat.

Miss Lowe left Manilla over two weeks ago to visit a "friend" in Indianapolis. She took with her only enough money to last her for a week or ten days and her father first became worried when she failed to return home at the end of that period of time.

Two reports regarding the affair are circulating in Manilla where the continued absence of Miss Lowe has caused something of a sensation. One report is that the young lady's father, following her failure to return to Manilla, sent her sufficient money to pay her railroad fare and urged her to come home. It is said that the daughter returned the money with thanks, stating that she preferred to remain in Indianapolis.

The other report has it that Miss Lowe was visiting a gentleman friend in the capital city and that the man seized and kept her money after her refusal to stay in Indianapolis and work as a domestic. Whether his object in keeping her there was merely to increase the supply of domestics in Indianapolis or whether he had some ulterior motive in doing so is not known.

The young lady returned home the latter part of last week.

PROUD OF TIRE RECORD

Michelin's Endurance in the Motor Speedway Races Remarkable.

At the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Decoration day and the other two days of the races, Michelin tires made a remarkable record for sustained speed and endurance. During the three days' meet there were twenty-eight separate contests. Of these Michelin tires won twenty-five. It is believed that this record for consistent work has never been equaled. The contest of greatest importance from the point of view of tire durability was Saturday's 200-mile race for the $10,000 Wheeler & Schebler trophy. In this contest Michelin were the equipment of the cars that finished first, second, third and fourth.

MAKES DEEP IMPRESSION

Presbyterian Church Congregation is Pleased With Rev. Alexander.

The Rev. C. E. Alexander of Bushnell, Ill., preached at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening. Both sermons were strong, logical and convincing and were delivered with an earnestness and ease that appealed directly to the hearer with force and effectiveness. In addition to his charming pulpit manners, Rev. Alexander has a winning personality that adds much to the power of his preaching and quickly impresses one with the conviction that he is a leader of men and a winner of souls. He and his wife attended the meeting of the General Assembly at Atlantic City and are now returning home. They will spend this week visiting at Franklin, their former home.

TUCKER IS IN THE GREAT WEST

Gwynneville Man Just as Far Away
From Howling Creditors as he Ever Was.

WRITES LETTER TO A FRIEND

Returns Money Which he Borrowed
From Jasper Ham Before Leaving Suddenly.

John Tucker, the merchant who disappeared from Gwynneville a short time ago, leaving unpaid debts amounting to about four thousand dollars, has finally been located, says the Shelbyville Democrat.

He is at present traveling somewhere in the western United States and it is believed that he can be found within the bounds of California. Following his mysterious disappearance reports of all kinds were circulated, one of the seemingly authentic ones being that Tucker had gone to Canada.

When the news of his departure became generally known a long and prolonged howl went up from Tucker's widely scattered creditors. He owed men in Greenfield, he had debts in Arlington, creditors in Morristown were left holding an almost empty bag and several Gwynneville business men were also numbered among the "suckers."

Although the report that Tucker was in Canada was generally circulated and gained credence by a large number of people nothing was definitely known in regard to the whereabouts of the missing debtor. The first news regarding him arrived in Gwynneville a few days ago when Jasper Ham, a well known blacksmith, received a letter from Tucker in which was enclosed a postoffice money order for $1.60.

Before leaving for the "tall timbers" Tucker had borrowed that amount from Mr. Ham. The letter had been mailed at a small town in California, but Tucker informed his friends that he was traveling continually and would not be there long. He stated that he had been working steadily west since leaving Gwynneville.

WORRY SAID TO BE CAUSE OF DEATH

Mrs. Marshall Brown of Fairview Expires After Troubling Herself
About Husband's Difficulties.

HAD FIGHT WITH A NEIGHBOR

Worrying over the troubles which her husband had recently, is said to have caused the death of Mrs. Marshall Brown at Fairview today. She was about sixty-five years old and had been in comparatively good health. Her husband, who is her only survivor, had trouble with a neighbor by the name of Powell about two weeks ago. It is said that Powell hit Brown with a spike after an argument and that the worry over the trouble brought on the disease which caused Mrs. Brown's death. No funeral arrangements have been made.

A typographical error in the Ephiphany church notice Saturday night made Whit Sunday read Whist Sunday, and the Blade wishes to correct the mistake—Concordia (Kas.) Blade.

MAY BE WORK OF INCENDIARY

roofs were kept dampened so that none of them caught fire.

The fire was first seen by Lola Vansickle, who lives across the street from the entrance to the bus barn about ten o'clock. When she first discovered the blaze, the whole southwest corner of the barn was on fire and before the fire company arrived, it was plain to be seen that the building was doomed and the only thing to be done was to attempt to save the nearby structures. It was not many minutes after the company arrived that the roof of the building collapsed and fell in.

The work of the fire company was very commendable. They fought the blaze heroically and kept it confined to the one building. No other structure was harmed by the blaze. As soon as the company arrived it was realized that the barn could not be saved and plans were immediately laid to save the other buildings. Hose was laid and the first stream of water was turned on the northeast corner of the barn to drive the fire back from the main Davis Brothers' barn, which is located just across the alley. The company was successful in driving the fire back and saved a small portion of the building. The main part of the Davis barn, although seriously threatened, was unharmed.

The crowd of bystanders joined in the fight to save the property and much of value was saved from the flames. R. S. Davis and John Davis were among the first to see the fire and immediately began to cut horses loose. Two valuable stallions belonging to Owen L. Carr, several horses which are boarded at the stable and others, which had been hitched in for the night, were taken from the building, before the flames devoured them. R. S. Davis was leading the horse belonging to "Hoe" Berry out of the stable when the horse stumbled and fell. Mr. Davis also fell down and was forced to crawl out of the barn, the flames licking up and around him before he could get out. The horse fell back suffocated, rushed into one of the stalls and was found dead there after the fire.

One of the most pitiable incidents in connection with the fire was the burning and necessary killing of Nello, the gray cab mare, which has traveled over the streets of Rushville for a number of years. She was loose when the first part of the crowd arrived and came running out of the barn, a mass of flames. Every hair on her body was burned off with the exception of her tail and her flesh was charred. Her eyes were burned out and her ears off. White lead was applied to relieve her of the pain, but that was impossible. Every breath she took was a snort, only showing the untold agony which she suffered. It was plain that she could not recover and she was knocked in the head to relieve her of her suffering.

Charley Myers, who buys horses for Jerry Klotz, for some unknown reason loaded ten head of horses out of the barn about eight-thirty o'clock Saturday night, thus saving them from death in the fire. When it has been his custom to load his shipment of horses every Saturday night about eleven o'clock, he is thanking his good fortune that he had the intuition to load them earlier than common. He says that he does not know why he loaded earlier than was his custom.

Mrs. Ed Caldwell probably suffered as much as any other interested party from the results of the fire. Her small fox terrier dog which has been a household pet for several years was destroyed by the flames. The dog was asleep in the office when the fire broke out and never escaped alive. She was under the office and bystanders say that they heard the canine yelping its last dying breaths when that end of the building caved in.

GLENWOOD DOCTOR IS NOW A BENEDICT

Dr. Orville Smiley, Thought to be a Single Man, Was Secretly Married About Two Years Ago.

RECENTLY LOCATED THERE

The marriage of Dr. Orville Smiley of Glenwood and Miss Rose Hunt of Richmond, Virginia, which occurred July 3, 1909, just became known in Glenwood Saturday. The discovery that the doctor was a benedict happened in a singular way. A Richmond, Virginia, attorney called upon Dr. Smiley Saturday, regarding the sale of some coal lands in which the doctor is interested. A notary was called in to witness the latter's signature and discovered that he was a married man. Of course it was too good a secret to keep and so the notary tipped off the news to Glenwood citizens.

Dr. Smiley but recently located in Glenwood and has an office in Pelham's drug store. His friends are extending congratulations.

BUICK MODEL 10

June 19th

Was the day Louis Chevrolet got his Buick car all harnessed up. Loco, Knox, Stoddard, Apperson, Fiat and other cars were racing for the big Cobe Cup. Bill Mead timed Chevrolet a mile a minute, they say, with his Buick; all other cars he passed. Cyrus joined the crowd as they called aloud. Chevrolet made the grandstand gasp. The crowd hollered, "Chevrolet's won," and the crowd yelled out as one, "I love my horse and wagon, but oh you Buick Car."
